

New text on disability studies

At the risk of appearing shamelessly self-promoting, I am taking this opportunity to let our CDPA community know of a new textbook just published for introductory disability studies – Appreciative disability studies (2019), published by Captus Press. Appreciative disability studies combines appreciative inquiry with disability studies, to focus on the resilience and resourcefulness of people with disabilities as they interact with their environment and with society.

The stunning cover art is by Wayne Westfall, a visual artist who has lived with quadriplegia for 40 years.

See here more information on the book and access to a review copy.

A vision of Canada where people with disabilities enjoy full participation and citizenship, supported by a coherent framework of legislation, regulation and programs.
